

Do you want to contribute to a truly changing business community? Do you want to be the basis of better cooperation between organizations and their suppliers, together with a team of motivated colleagues? Do you want to be settled on the basis of jointly created value instead of delivered hours?

We are looking for SAP Fiori & UI5 developers

As more and more customers fall for the solution-oriented Value as a Service services of LAKRAN Procurement Professionals, we are looking for front-end developers. SAP projects are one of the four pillars of our service, so we continue to expand the Solutioning as a Service team.

What is LAKRAN?

Since its foundation in 2006, LAKRAN's mission is "to improve business commerce by making optimum use of digital innovation". That sounds very formal, but that means nothing less than do everything about using technology in its best form in the cooperation of organizations with their customers and / or suppliers. Since then, the company has grown into a business group consisting of four companies and a foundation. LAKRAN Procurement Professionals focuses primarily on simplifying the purchasing process, AGAIN by LAKRAN is the software house where common issues in purchasing are resolved and since a few months there is also FlexForceMonkey, a Software as a Service department that allows temporary employment agencies and their clients to work better administratively together. The team consists of enthusiastic professionals from different backgrounds, but with one thing in common: creating real added value.

SAP front-end developer

We do assignments for various clients, mainly in the Netherlands. As a functional consultant, part of your time, you will working with customers, but you will also have the opportunity to work on internal developments of reusable products such as mobile apps and add-ons. The area where our SAP work takes place is on the cutting edge of SAP SRM, SAP MM, Fiori, SAP Ariba, external supplier's web shops and SAP Fieldglass. Your front-end capabilities will ensure better user experience, but also simplify processes that run across different systems.

And why at LAKRAN?

With us you work in a team where everyone in that team is fighting together for the same goals. Every discussion makes us stronger and therefore must have free play. Anyone can have good and bad ideas, no matter how much experience they have, so the only way to grow faster is to really listen to everyone. How do we manage that? By elevating the term 'flat organization' to a new art, for example. We keep the team feeling 'small' and 'close to home', but we have also renounced every distinction in job levels, and corresponding matters such as lease payments are set equal for everyone.

Of course, there is a nice package of primary and secondary conditions, BYOD regulation and fully reimbursed pension. But even more, with us you really contribute to your dream-future. You work on techniques and products that you are good at and want to be better at. The flat function house arranges that conversations with us are about the responsibilities you take instead of the duties and rights that you receive from us. Together with colleagues you build a larger world where LAKRAN Procurement Professionals is known for delivering valuable results.
